

About the Authors

Buarattana Attachoo has been an English teacher at Kasetsart University Laboratory School, Center for Educational Research and Development for three years. After receiving her LL.M. in International Laws from University of Leeds in 2010 and worked as a lawyer, she changed her career path to be a teacher and graduated with an MA. in Teaching English as a Foreign Language (TEFL) from Language Institute of Thammasat University (LITU) in 2015. Her fields of interest include Vocabulary Learning Strategies, and Special Education. She can be reached at 3ua.attana@gmail.com.

Darunee Meechai graduated from Saint John's University with a bachelor's degree in English for International Communication. She obtained her Master's degrees in Tourism Management from Assumption University and English for Careers from Thammasat University. She has taught both English and tourism-related courses at Saint John's University for more than ten years. She can be reached at eau\_jeep@yahoo.com.

Jirada Wudthayagorn earned her Ph.D. in Applied Linguistics from the University of Pittsburgh. She is an assistant professor at CULI and Head of Language Assessment and Evaluation Track of the EIL (English as an International Language) Program of Graduate School, Chulalongkorn University. Her research focuses on language assessment and language policy. She can be reached at wudthayagorn@hotmail.com.

Mayuree Thawornpat is a lecturer in Linguistics and chair of the Center for Documentation and Revitalization of Endangered Languages at Research Institute for Languages and Cultures of Asia, Mahidol University. She obtained her Ph.D. (Linguistics) from Institute of Language and Culture for Rural Development, Mahidol University. Her current research interests include ethno-linguistics and community-based research.

Nabhidh Kijparnich is currently a part-time lecturer at Bangkok University International College (BUIC). She received a B.A. degree in History at Silpakorn University and Diploma in Business Administration from University of Victoria, Canada. However, she has long been interested in linguistics, and it was the English as an International Language program (EIL), Chulalongkorn University, where her linguistic pursuits came to pass and where she received an M.A. in EIL with the concentration of English Linguistics. She also looks forward to finishing her Ph.D. in EIL.

Nasser Rashidi is Professor of TEFL and the faculty member of Shiraz University, Iran. He has presented and published many papers in different (inter)national conferences and reputable journals. His areas of interest include the philosophy of language learning, critical pedagogy, critical discourse analysis, and teacher education.

Nattama Pongpairoj received her B.A. (English) (first-class honors) from Chulalongkorn University, M.A. (Linguistics) from the University of Oregon, and Ph.D. (Linguistics) from the University of York. She is currently an Associate Professor in the Department of English, Faculty of Arts, Chulalongkorn University. Her research interests include interlanguage and L2 acquisition of functional morphology.

Nirada Chitrakara is an assistant professor at the English Department, Faculty of Arts, Chulalongkorn University. She holds a B.A. (English) from Chulalongkorn University, an M.A. (English as a Second Language) from Western Michigan University, Kalamazoo, Michigan, USA, an M.A. and a Ph.D. (English) from University of Wisconsin-Madison, Madison, Wisconsin, USA. Her areas of interest include English syntax, language variation, and historical linguistics. She can be reached at nirada.s@chula.ac.th.

Pakawan Pugsee has been a lecturer at Department of Mathematics and Computer Science, Faculty of Science, Chulalongkorn University for three years. She graduated with a Doctor of Philosophy in Computer Engineering, a Master and a Bachelor of Science in Computer Science from Chulalongkorn University. Her current research is text data mining and semantic analysis.

Panna Chaturongakul is a full-time lecturer at the Language Institute of Thammasat University. She was awarded her Ph.D. in English Language Teaching (ELT) from the University of Essex in the United Kingdom in 2012. Her fields of interest include English for Specific Purposes (ESP), ESP materials development, ESP assessment, vocabulary teaching, and doing qualitative research in ELT. She is working on her research in English for architects in a Thai context. She can be reached at pannacha@gmail.com.

Panuwat Janpugdee is currently a lecturer in the Department of Electrical Engineering, Chulalongkorn University, Thailand. He received a B.E. in electrical engineering from Chulalongkorn University, Thailand, in 1994, and received a M.S. and a Ph.D. degree in electrical engineering from The Ohio State University, USA, in 2002 and 2006, respectively. Before joining Chulalongkorn University, he worked as a professional engineer in several companies in Thailand and USA, and also as a researcher at National University of Singapore. His research areas are Applied Electromagnetics and Telecommunications.

Parvin Safari is Ph.D. Candidate of TEFL, Shiraz University, Iran. Her fields of interest fall within areas of critical pedagogy, critical language testing, ecological language learning, semiotics and the philosophy of language, teacher education, and critical discourse analysis.

Sasithorn Limgomolvilas is currently pursuing her Ph.D. in English as an International Language program (EIL), Chulalongkorn University. She graduated from Chulalongkorn University with a bachelor degree in education. After receiving her M.A. in TESOL from San Francisco State University, she came back to Thailand to teach in the Chulalongkorn University Language Institute, where she has worked for three years. She can be reached at taisinbox@gmail.com.

Satita Watanapokakul is currently an assistant professor at Chulalongkorn University Language Institute (CULI) in Bangkok, Thailand. She obtained her Bachelor's degree in English from the Faculty of Arts at Chulalongkorn University, her Master's degree in Teaching English as a Foreign Language from Thammasat University, and her Ph.D. in English as an International Language from Chulalongkorn University. She was also granted a Postdoctoral Research Fellowship from Endeavour Scholarships and Fellowships in 2012 to conduct a research study at the University of Technology Sydney (UTS), Australia. Her fields of interest are English language teaching (including active learning and creative methodology) and technology enhancing ELT.

Singhanat Nomniam is currently a Deputy Director for International Relations and Special Affairs at Research Institute for Languages and Cultures of Asia, Mahidol University. He obtained his Ed.D. in TESOL and Applied Linguistics from School of Education, University of Leicester, UK. His current research interests include culture of English learning, media and language learning, EIL, ESP, and course design and materials development.

Supakorn Phoocharoensil an Assistant Professor at Language Institute of Thammasat University. Having received his Bachelor's and Master's degrees in English from the Faculty of Arts, Chulalongkorn University, Dr. Phoocharoensil obtained his Ph.D. in English as an International Language from Chulalongkorn University. He is currently teaching various undergraduate courses in English for Specific Purposes, as well as MA. and Ph.D. courses in English Language Teaching and Applied Linguistics. His areas of research interest include second language acquisition, interlanguage syntax and pragmatics, English collocations and formulaic language, linking adverbials, and corpus linguistics. He had his research articles published in several international peer-reviewed journals, e.g. The Journal of Pan-Pacific Association of Applied Linguistics, Hong Kong Journal of Applied Linguistics, The Southeast Asian Journal of English Language Studies, The International Journal of Communication and Linguistic Studies etc.

Thanaphan Thapthimhin is an MA student at Department of English, the Faculty of Arts, Chulalongkorn University. His interests include Universal Grammar (UG), English morphology and syntax in Second Language Acquisition (SLA).

Tipamas Chumworatayee is currently an associate professor teaching both post- and undergraduate courses at the Language Institute, Thammasat University. She obtained her Ph.D. from Department of Reading, College of Education, Texas Woman's University, Texas, USA. Her main interests include EFL reading-strategy instruction, EFL reading-strategy awareness raising, and EFL teacher education. She can be reached at ctipamas@hotmail.com.

Zhengdong Gan is currently an associate professor in the Faculty of Education at the University of Macau. He holds a PhD in English Language Education and Assessment from the Hong Kong Polytechnic University. Before he moved to Macau, he had been teaching at the Hong Kong Institute of Education for several years. His research interests include language learner individual difference, language performance assessment, and language teacher education. He can be reached at ZhengdongGan@umac.mo.