

About the Authors

Adisa Teo is an Associate Professor of English working full-time at the Department of Languages and Linguistics, Faculty of Liberal Arts, Prince of Songkla University. She received a Doctoral Degree in Education from the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, a Master of Arts Degree in Applied Linguistics from King Mongkut's Institute of Technology Thonburi, and a Bachelor of Arts Degree in English from Prince of Songkla University. Her professional interests include Second Language Acquisition, English as an International Language, learner autonomy, and teacher development.

Chanika Gampper is a full-time lecturer at Language Institute, Thammasat University. She completed her Ph.D. in Second Language Acquisition and Teaching from the University of Arizona, U.S.A. Her interests include contrastive rhetoric, discourse analysis, and language assessment.

Feng Teng obtained his master degree in TESOL from University of Canberra in 2009, and now works as a lecturer and researcher at the department of English, Nanning University, China. His main research interests include EFL vocabulary teaching and learning.

Jiang Wei is currently working as digital marketing manager at ONYX Hospitality Group. She obtained a Master of Arts in English for Careers (MEC) from Thammasat University and received a Bachelor of Arts in Thai Language from Guangxi University for Nationalities. She has several years' experience of online marketing. Her interests are in the areas of language choices and patterns used in online press releases and online advertising.

Jiraporn Intrasai is Associate Professor in the English Section, Department of Applied Arts, Faculty of Industrial Education, King Mongkut's Institute of Technology Ladkrabang. She completed her doctoral degree in Linguistics at University of Delaware, U.S.A and her Master's degree in Educational Linguistics at Srinakharinwirot University (Prasarnmitr). Her interests include linguistics, language acquisition/learning, reading, writing, teaching English as a foreign/ second language and Testing.

Kittitouch Soontornwipast is Assistant Professor at the Language Institute of Thammasat University. He obtained his MA in Teaching English to Speakers of Other Languages (TESOL) at California State University, Los Angeles in 1995. He obtained his Doctor of Education in Professional Development at Victoria University, Australia in 2008. His academic interests are qualitative research, English program evaluation, teaching English for specific purposes, instructional media, and Action Research for English teachers. He has had experiences in training primary and secondary English teachers.

Lilies Setiasih is an English teacher in the Faculty of Economics and Business, Bandung Islamic University, located in Bandung West Java, Indonesia. She has been teaching ESP and EAP for years in the fields of Psychology, Communication, Industrial and Planology Engineering, Economics, and Law. She got S1 degree, Master degree (S2), and Doctorate degree (S3) in English Education. Her research interest is reading and writing development (literacy). Among the books she has written in EAP are English Reading Comprehension for Students of Engineering (1995); Text-book English for Students of Economics (1999- ISBN 979-8634-15-2); English Reading Comprehension for Students of Law, and English Reading Comprehension for Students of Economics (2003 – ISBN 979-8634- 25-X).

Marissada Nilmanee is currently a student at Thammasat University in Bangkok, pursuing a Master of Arts in English Language Studies (International Program). She earned her Bachelor of Arts in English (Second Class Honors), with a minor in History for Tourism, from Thaksin University, Songkhla in 2006. Her research interests are in the areas of teachers' beliefs, culture teaching and intercultural communication.

Matthew Miklas is a full-time teacher at Thammasat University in Thailand, teaching academic, business and general English. He holds a B.A. in English Literature from the University of Maryland as well as Cambridge CELTA and DELTA certifications. His current interests are materials creation, CLT and teaching techniques targeted at learners in an EFL context.

Natanan Tungsujarittam is an English teacher with professional academic position at Nakhonsawan Technical College. She completed her postgraduate diploma in Applied Linguistics at Regional Southeast Asian Ministers of Education Organization Regional Language Centre (RELC) in Singapore and master's degree in Applied Management – Administration Technology at National Institute of Development Administration (NIDA). She is a master's candidate in Applied Linguistics – English for Science and Technology at King Mongkut's Institute of Technology Ladkrabang. Her interests involve teaching methodology, language testing, language acquisition, and learning strategy.

Noorulhoda Ding is a graduate student of the Master of Arts Program in Teaching English as an International Language of the Faculty of Liberal Arts, Prince of Songkla University. She received a Bachelor of Arts Degree in Education from Prince of Songkla University. She is interested in English as an International Language and the teaching of culture in English classes.

Nussara Wadsorn is a teacher, and the Chairperson of Business English Department at Assumption University, Thailand. She obtained her Ph.D. in Linguistics, from UNSW Australia in 2004. Her research interests are in sociolinguistics, ESP, SLA, World Englishes, and pronunciation teaching. Her English teaching experience ranges from teaching the migrants of 0-English proficiency to post-graduate students. Her published research works are on the topics of Thai Politeness Strategies and ASEAN Identity. She also conducted research on the intelligibility of Asian Englishes, the effects of movie captions and subtitles on vocabulary learning, and learner autonomy and peer evaluation.

Supakorn Panichkul is a teacher at Assumption University in Bangkok, teaching linguistic courses. She completed her Master of Art degree in Linguistics from Chulalongkorn University, Thailand. Her interests are in the areas of English language teaching, phonetics and phonology, Lingua Franca, World Englishes, and ASEAN Englishes.