

Notes on Contributors

Keerati Thongsongkleeb (tongsongkeeb6@hotmail.com) received his M.A. in English for Professional Development from the School of Language and Communication, National Institute of Development Administration in 2016. Currently, he is working as an English lecturer with North Bangkok University. His main research interest is in English Language Teaching.

Kasma Suwanarak (kasma.suwanarak@gmail.com) is an assistant professor at the Graduate School of Language and Communication, National Institute of Development Administration. She received her Ph.D. in Teaching English to Speakers of Other Language from University of Exeter, UK. Her research interests include Foreign Language and Culture, and Linguistics.

Anuchit Tharamanit (ajkob7@yahoo.com) is a full-time English teacher at Takpittayakhom School, Tak, Thailand. He earned a bachelor's degree in English from Chiang Mai University. He received one master's degree in TEFL from Chiang Mai University and a second master's degree in English from Naresuan University. He completed a doctor's degree in English at Naresuan University, Phitsanulok, Thailand. His research interests are in the field of second language acquisition, English language teaching, and applied linguistics.

Narat Kanprachar is currently a faculty member at the Department of English, Faculty of Humanities, Naresuan University, Phitsanulok, Thailand. She has a bachelor's degree in English from Chulalongkorn University, a master's degree in English (Applied Linguistics) from Indiana State University, and a Ph.D. in English (Rhetoric and Linguistics) from Indiana University of Pennsylvania, USA. Her research interests include L2 composition and pedagogy, functional grammar, and English language teaching and learning in the ESL/EFL contexts.

Attapol Khamkhien (faasapk@ku.ac.th) is an Assistant Professor at the Department of English, Faculty of Liberal Arts and Science, Kasetsart University, Thailand. He is currently a Ph.D candidate in English Language Teaching and Applied Linguistics at the Centre for Applied Linguistics, University of Warwick, UK. His research interests include corpus linguistics, genre-based analysis, vocabulary instruction, language learning styles and strategies, ELF, and second language acquisition.

Daranee Choomthong (daranee.choomthong@gmail.com) is a full-time English teacher at Maejo University. She completed a Master of Arts in Teaching English to Speakers of Other Languages (TESOL) from Payap University and received a Bachelor of Arts program in English, Second Class Honors from Chiang Mai University. She teaches general English courses and English pronunciation. Her professional interests include language and communication and English as an international language.

Koeun Lee (cconi@kdi.re.kr) received her M.A. in Language and Communication from the School of Language and Communication, National Institute of Development Administration in 2016.

Chalermchai Chaichompoo (nongmor@hotmail.com) is a lecturer at the English Department, Chiang Mai Rajabhat University. He graduated with a doctorate degree in linguistics from Mahidol University. His specialization is phonology of minority languages in northern Thailand and teaching English as a foreign language which has long been his special interest.

Nuchada Dumrongsiri (ndumrongsiri@hotmail.com) received her Doctor of Philosophy in Communication Studies from Kent State University, Ohio, U.S.A. Her research interests include interpersonal communication, social media, social support, and organizational communication. Currently, she is an Assistant Professor working full-time in Department of English and Linguistics, Faculty of Liberal Arts, Thammasat University.

Soraya Ngamsnit (proffjow@hotmail.com) received her Ph.D. in Communication Arts from Faculty of Communication Arts, Rangsit University in 2012. Currently, she is working as a lecturer with Phranakhon Rajabhat University. Her main research interests are Learning Communication.

Sureepong Phothongsunan (sureepong@hotmail.com) is an Assistant Professor at Theodore Maria School of Arts, Assumption University. Having a doctorate in TEFL from the University of Exeter, UK., he completed both an M.A. in TESL and a TESL Graduate Diploma from the University of Central Missouri, U.S.A. He has published books, articles, and research in the fields of Applied Linguistics and English Language Teaching.